Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

I PITCHED into the waste-basket the other day a letter from a man who was thinking about starting a newspaper in another county and wanted me to print it for him. "Business," he wrote, "ought to be good next year; it's a political year." But as to the purpose he has in mind, I think he is wrong. True, there's an election next year. But millions in taxes are delinquent. The public schools are bankrupt. And as the people approach another campaign year they are less interested in WHOM they shall elect than in HOW MANY.

Hope Team Loses to Nashville, for 7 Wins, 5 Defeats

Locals Close Season With Worst Loss, Score 44 to 6

BADLY OUTPLAYED

Bobcats Weaken Early, and Scrappers Run Over Them

In the final football game of the season, Coach Teddy Jones' Bobcat team was administered its worst defeat in years, losing to Nashville here Wednesday night, 44 to 6. Payne, quarterback and captain of the Nashville squad, led the visitor's attack which surpassed that of the Bobcats in every department except passing.

Most of Nashville's scores were made on running plays and slashes through the Bobcat line. Line Touchdown Hope accounted for its lone touchdown in the second quarter when Jack Turner took a 30-yard pass over his head from Madison, crossing the goal untouched.

Nashville made 20 first downs to six for Hope. The Bobcats were unable to function on running plays and depended upon passes for their chief gains. The longest run of the game was by E. Abbott, Nashville, who sprinted 35 yards to carry the ball deep into Bobcat territory in the second quarter.

Penalties cost Hope 70 yards, one of which carried the ball to within five yards of the goal. It was a 15-yard setback which indirectly resulted in Nashville's second touchdown.

Disheartened, the Bobcats relaxed and played ragged football during a greater portion of the game. Nashville kept pounding at the Hope line, opening gapping holes, which resulted in touchdowns. Only twice were the Scrappers forced to punt.

A large crowd turned out for the game. Nashville sent a big delegation here.

Officials were: Berry (Vanderbilt) referee; Dupleymple (Henderson) umpire; O'Daniel (Hendrix) headlinesman.

7 Victories, 5 Defeats The Nashville game was the 12th this season for the Bobcats. Hope has seven victories to its credit against five defeats. The Bobcats have scored 136 points, against 128 for the opposition.

The record:

Smith Strikes at Program of CWA

"Professors Playing Anagrams With Alphabet Soup," He Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred E. Smith said Thursday the Public Works Administration has broken down and that the Civil Works program was set up to hide its failure. "Instead of acknowledging failure of the Public Works Administration," said the former governor, "this crazy, top-heavy structure, choked with red tape and bureaucracy is being left as it is, and out of it is being created the Civil Works Administration to raise relief wages and get more people to work during the winter."

"Halfway between a lemon and an orange is a grapefruit; halfway between a public work and a relief work is a civil work. Up to now the federal establishments only recently scheduled for consolidation, have been increased to include an AAA, an FCA, a PWA, an FEPC, an NRA, a CCC, a TVA, an HOLC, an RFC—and now we have a CWA. It looks as though one of the absent-minded professors had played anagrams with the alphabet soup."

Smith's attack was made in an editorial in the New Outlook, the same issue of which contained his demand for "sound money" and a return to the gold standard, made public last week.

W. R. Magee Held in Texarkana Jail; Probing His Story

Negro Says 4 White Men Entered Garland City Home in Night

J. WATKINS SLAIN

Sheriff Turquette Leaves for Garland City Investigation

TEXARKANA (AP)—W. R. Magee, negro, who said he killed one of four white men who made a midnight raid on his home southeast of here in Miller county, surrendered to Sheriff R. W. Turquette Friday, who left immediately for Garland City to investigate.

Jack Watkins, fisherman, was shot to death by Magee, who claimed that Watkins and three other white men entered his house and dragged him from bed.

Magee said he broke loose, grabbed a pistol and dashed into the darkness. The white men fired at him, Magee said, and he returned several shots, not knowing any had taken effect until he returned to his house after spending several hours in hiding.

The negro is held in the county jail pending investigation. The identity of the other white men is unknown to officers, they said.

The Negro's Story The negro readily admitted the shooting but added that "I had to do it." He was being held in the Miller county jail Friday morning until Sheriff Turquette had made an investigation into the affair. No formal charge had been placed against the negro early in the morning.

Magee described the shooting Monday from his cell in the Miller jail. He stated that four white men dragged him out of bed during the night and pulled him toward the door, stating that they were going to kill him. When they came out of the house, the negro jerked away from the men and started running, he related. Almost simultaneously with his dash for freedom, the four men started shooting, one of the bullets passing through his vest close to his right side, Magee said.

Fires While Running While in full flight, the negro said he pointed a .38 pistol over his left shoulder and pulled the trigger several times. When he returned to the farm later in the night, he was told

Verne Miller Is Slain by Gangland

Kansas City Killer, Sought by Police, Killed by Enemies

DETROIT (AP)—Admittedly without clues or theories, police and agents of the United States department of justice Thursday sought the slayers of Verne Miller, notorious mid-western desperado, whose battered body was found on the outskirts of the city late Wednesday.

The body of the man who had been sought as the machine gunner in the slaying of four officers and a prisoner at the Kansas City union station last June 17, was found in a roadside ditch, nude and trussed up with blankets. Identification was by fingerprints.

An examination of the body established the time of death as 18 to 24 hours before the body was found. Detectives sought a possible link between the slaying of Miller and the slaying early Sunday of Abe Axler and Eddie Fletcher, New York and Detroit police characters, whose bodies, bearing numerous bullet wounds, were found in an automobile near a north side suburb. It was known by the police that a famous killer—possible Miller—was brought to Detroit to slay Axler and Fletcher.

Lynching Storm Climaxes Career of Gov. J. Rolph

California's Master Showman Once More in Spotlight

STORY OF HIS RISE

Sprung From Ruins of 1906 Earthquake to Fortune and High Office

By NEA Service The governor of a great state, with a boldness that leaves a nation gasping, condones mob murder and touches off an explosion that reverberates from far west to far east.

Not only did Gov. James Rolph, Jr., of California condone the lynching of the slayers of Brooke Hart, San Jose merchant's son, but he emphatically Rolph, Hoover, Clash SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover and Gov. James Rolph Jr., exchanged criticism Thursday over the lynching of the kidnap-slayers of Brooke Hart of San Jose last Sunday night.

Said the former president: "The governor has been advocating lynch law. It is a subversion of the very spirit of organized society."

Said the governor: "I deplore the use of troops against our own people. Look at the mess we got into when troops were called out in Washington against the bonus marchers."

The exchange followed a rebuke to Rolph for his stand condoning the lynching of John M. Holmes and Thomas Harold Thurmond, in a joint statement issued Wednesday by a group of leading California citizens, including Mr. Hoover.

approved it, as "a lesson to the nation in its treatment to kidnapers." And a storm beats about him that has not had a parallel in U. S. history. Thunders of denunciation roar from public, pastors and press. And blending with them is another roar that arises in support of his stand, lawless though it may be.

Long in the Spotlight A man of many sides as James Rolph, Jr., a virile, masterful man, but a man of strange strength and weakness. For a quarter century the spotlight has beamed on him, then flickered, and now again beats on him with glaring intensity.

Five times mayor of San Francisco, then governor of his state, he has won his way purely by an overpowering personality and a showmanship that bedims that displayed by Jimmy Walker in his heyday.

Across the ruins of an earthquake, James Rolph, Jr., started his march to fame and power.

Marshaled Quake Relief A successful young business man of the Mission district, born, reared and married there, almost an idol in that section, he naturally assumed leadership on that ghastly morning of April 18, 1906, when houses toppled like chaff and flames licked across San Francisco.

He led the relief drive, calling his friends together as the city still burned, saddling his horse, riding from end to end of the stricken area and surveying the need. Guiding terrified refugees to relief stations, he arranged for food, shelter, and clothing and within a day the machine of relief was functioning smoothly.

From the organization that he then formed sprang the Mission Improvement Association, headed by Rolph. He directed the fight for water, sewers, paving, and other public projects, spending his own money freely to aid his people.

Wealth: Then Office A new city rose from the wreckage of the quake and with it rose James Rolph, Jr. Graft such as San Francisco never before had known came also. Exposed followed exposure and weak men followed weak mayor.

And then the people called for Rolph. He had "made his millions" in shipping and merchandising and gave willing ear to the plea that he run for mayor on the reform ticket in 1911. He won by 16,000 votes.

J. Curran Conway Outlines Federal Savings and Loan

Home Loan Bank Official Describes System to Rotarians

TWOFOLD BANKING

Commercial Banks Won't Handle Real Estate—New Units Will

The separation of all real estate operations from the commercial banking business of America, and the inauguration of local mutual thrift associations under federal supervision to carry on this work and replace the old-style building & loan associations, are aims of the Roosevelt administration, Hope Rotary club was told Friday noon by J. Curran Conway of Little Rock.

Mr. Conway, member of the executive staff of the Federal Home Loan bank for the Little Rock district, is now in the field organizing these federal savings and loan associations, and expects to form one in Hope.

Three were chartered in Arkansas early this week, at Monticello, Camden, and Russellville.

New Banking System Reviewing the paralysis of lending organizations such as the old-style building & loan associations, and withdrawal of the commercial banks from real estate and other long-term loan activities, Mr. Conway described the future banking system of America as twofold:

1. The commercial banks, accepting short-term deposits and making short-term commercial loans, backed up by the power of the Federal Reserve system.

2. Federal savings and loan associations, which are to be local mutual thrift societies, with the government matching local investment funds dollar for dollar, and the whole investment backed up by membership in the Federal Home Loan bank, the equivalent in the building & loan business to the Federal Reserve System in the commercial banking business.

How Is Work How liberal the government's policy is going to be in helping launch these local associations, Mr. Conway described in the following example:

Presuming local investors raised $5,000 toward the capital of a Hope saving and loan association, the federal government would immediately invest an additional $5,000 in preferred stock; furthermore, the association would immediately have a credit line of $3,500 with the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Thus, Mr. Conway said, $5,000 invested locally would bring $8,500 into the community from the outside.

This association, supervised in every detail by the federal government, would then engage in the business normally carried on by the old-style building & loan company, such as loans to residence-owners money to buy a new roof, make other repairs, or refinance present indebtedness, within certain limitations.

Failure of the old building & loan companies, Mr. Conway said, was for the same reason, substantially, as the failure of many commercial banks.

No More Complications The banks got into long-term real estate operations, and the building & loan companies got into short-term banking operations—which led both to

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Good Generalship Expected to Hold
Congress in Session ... "Spells" Resurrected ... Gore May Be Spilled in Senate ... "Bully" ... Just Plain Bill ... "Spells" ... Lessons
Didn't Toss With F. R.

BY ROONEY DUTCHER
NRA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—By playing both ends against the middle the Roosevelt group hopes to get through a stormy session of Congress with its policies intact.

The rising strength of anti-inflation
sentiment, it is figured, will help balk
the demands of the extreme inflationists in the next Congress.

The government bond market may have to be strengthened, but the administration's optimists think the Capitol Hill situation may prove quite simple. Won't the conservatives have to support Roosevelt against the radicals, and vice versa?

On one side there'll be a sound dollar group, including regular republicans and such conservative Democrats
as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.
On the other, the western and southern senators who demand outright currency inflation. In the center Roosevelt and a group bound to support him.

Since senators presumably can be bought in law by purchase of silver for silver certificates, Roosevelt, insiders say, wouldn't mind that.

The prospect of currency expansion
after devaluation increases the dollar value of the gold reserve also will be dangled before the extreme inflationists.

And Roosevelt's advisers don't believe any anti-administration measure will pass both houses over his veto.

Dead? No, Just Ending

What's the use? This column recently reported the raiding and complete dismantling of Washington's swankiest speakeasies. Well, they're open again now, with new fixtures.

They'd Split Gore

Crafty Puerto Ricans, at least temporarily, have ceased firing at Governor Robert H. Gore, who is in this country. They think he will resign quietly if they lay off awhile.

The anti-Gore movement is established in Washington. It came when Senator Luis Munoz-Marin, publisher of La Democracia in San Juan, slipped quietly into town on behalf of Fuerza Rico's Liberal party to give the administration an earful on the governor. He has seen Roosevelt twice and Secretary Dern several times.

Munoz told them his peaceful country had developed a semi-revolutionary state of mind since Gore's arrival,
that Gore's life might be in danger,
and that his retention might mean armed revolt.

He expects to stay here until Gore
resigns or is removed, and guesses that won't be long.

Gore says most of the agitation against him is political and points out that he has the support of the Puerto Rican legislature.

Ambassador "Bill"

William C. Bullitt, our new envoy to Russia, insists on feeling at home with the proletariat. Some photographers addressed him as "Mr. Ambassador."

"My name's Bill," he insisted. "Call me Bill!"

Study Lynching Laws

The Department of Justice is se-cretely studying the question of its jurisdiction in investigating lynchings, with special reference to recent ones
at Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Princess Anne, Maryland. Col. Louis M. Howe, Roosevelt's secretary, is responsible for this.

Lessons Bounced Off

Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, whose roar of protest as he resigned from the treasury still echoes, once taught Franklin D. Roosevelt at Harvard.

"The words indicate," he said,
"that he was a member of a class I taught in introductory economics. I'm sorry, but I don't recall him."

"You didn't make much impression
on him, apparently," someone suggested.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
©1933 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

How can we teach children to be generous? Can generosity be taught at all once a child has become utterly selfish?

Once a child has learned to think in terms of himself and himself alone, it is almost impossible to change his nature. We can teach him to give but this is not real generosity. The real word implies pleasure in giving and the selfish child like the selfish adult will have himself to fight every time
he donates a gift or an act on another.

The real secret of teaching generosity is to begin at beginnings, catch him young and turn his thoughts away
from himself.

There is a time, as those know who have worked with tiny children, just past babyhood when his developing nature wants to share his things with other people. We call it the generosity impulse but it may be something else. Whatever it is, it is the psychological moment in his life for us to seize upon and make the most of.

Age of Generosity

A little fellow of two will push his cracker into your mouth and say, "Bite!" Or he will bring his blocks and heap them into your lap. He moves over and pats the bed. "We down," he invites. It is the age of sharing. Perhaps in discovering his new relationship to "things" he wants a partnership, but at any rate he has his eyes off himself at the moment.
And it is to be made much of.

Accept and praise him for his gesture. Encourage him to give not only you but other people his bites and his pillows and his toys. Don't let it bother you. Always accept and always be pleased.

It is when this stage is past, however, that children seem to divide into two types, the selfish and the thoughtful. If the former ceases to offer things to you or his playmates encourage him to do so, especially his brothers or sisters.

If the trouble has already begun and there is a scene every time you suggest that he give something away it is a good idea to try him through his likes rather than his dislikes. If Roy dislikes his neighbor Jack, it may set rather than dislodge selfishness. If he associates giving with something unpleasant there isn't much gained in the process.

"Learning" to Give

Instead urge him to give Jane, whom he likes, his airplane to play with or his ball to hold, or half his apple.
Then later try him on Jack again.

Perhaps he dislikes Jack and Jane and all children, or at least is jealous of them. Look around. What do you or whom does he like? The dog? His big wooden soldier? Then play a game. Have him give them things.
That a dog is a dog and a wooden soldier senseless makes no difference to a child. He isn't looking too hard for appreciation.

If it is worked right, his
"give" impulse may tactfully be directed to people, and still later even to those he is jealous of. But unless it is rooted in him from the first this sense of having to give may prove his greatest conflict. Generosity, real generosity, must be bred in the bone.

If you use cosmetics at all while you are undergoing skin treatments, select kinds recommended by the doctor who is caring for you.

Absolute cleanliness is necessary to a healthy skin. Once you discover the slightest blemish on your face, take extra precautions. Use a medicated soap. Compact powder puffs are the worst offenders of cleanliness. Be sure that yours is washed often enough to keep it scrupulously clean. New ones cost only a few cents.

Always apply creams, lotions and make-up with clean cotton pads. Instead, use your fingers. That way, germs on your hands are carried into the skin on your face.

You can buy a roll of sterile cotton puffs for very little money. Cut it into squares as you need it. And seal the box when you have cut up all the squares you need for that one time.
The old-fashioned powder puff is no longer fashionable on the modern woman's dressing table. She realizes that a clean cotton pad, each time, is much more sanitary.

NEXT: Sleeping for beauty.

There are more than 7,000 hospitals with some 1,000,000 beds in the United

Two hundred seventy-two of Iowa's

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN
©1933 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment?
DAVID BANISTER, a radio personality, was reported to have taken to find out.

Police are searching for an
"unknown blond" who visited
King shortly before his death.
Banister has seen the girl, but she has since disappeared.

HERMAN SCURLACH, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. AL DRUGAS, friend of King, says the orchestra leader has been having trouble with JOE PARROT, his former vaudeville partner, and accuses Parrot of the murder. Police learn that MELVIN HOLLES-TER, middle-aged apartment
and a violent quarrel with King
after his car killed her cousin, CAP-TAIN MCNEAL of the detective bureau goes to see Miss Hollester and her brother, MATTHEW.
When he leaves he declares,
"Those two will hear nothing."
Next morning Banister learns that the blond suspect has been arrested. He goes to see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

The girl who had called herself Juliet France arose from the cot on which she had been sitting and came forward. If Banister had expected to find her weeping
he was mistaken. The gray eyes he had seen filled with tears met his own steadily, disdainfully.
There were no tear marks on her cheeks. The girl's whole attitude was defiant.

"So it's you," she said. "What a surprise!"

"I just heard you were here,"
he told her. "Yesterday when I went back to the hotel I couldn't find you."

"No, I suppose you couldn't. I wasn't there." She laughed then and Banister was sure the defiance, the cool aloofness was a pose. The laugh wasn't convincing. This girl was not hardened;
she was frightened. Once more Banister felt his better judgment leaving him.

"I came," he said, "to see if there was anything I could do."

"And why shouldn't I do anything?"
she asked. "This is such a pleasant place. This is such a pleasant place."
The girl laughed again and this time her lips trembled. "Perhaps I should apologize for my appearance," she went on. "The accommodations and the service here—"

"Don't!" Banister said shortly.
He didn't want her to go on like that. She was still wearing the green suit. She had taken off the jacket and he saw that her blouse was of the same shade. It was a silk blouse, made with a bow beneath the chin that gave her a childlike look. Her lovely, honey-colored hair was not as smooth as it had been yesterday but it gleamed and glistened. Banister thought of Denise Lang's crisp, metallic ringlets. The way this girl wore her hair, he thought,
was much more attractive.

"What happened?" he asked.
"How long have you been here?"
"Since last night."

"Last night? You mean you were here in this cell?"

The girl nodded. "Oh, yes," she said. "The lady on your left there snores. There was one here last night who was worse. She kept shrieking the most terrible things. They took her away awhile ago. Oh, there's been plenty of excitement. The detectives keep asking me questions and they've taken my finger prints—"

Her fingers, where they were rested against the cell bars were white and gracefully formed.

"See here!" Banister interrupted. "There must be something I can do. Someone to get in touch with!"

Weekly Sunday School Lesson— Paul In Ephesus

Text: Acts 19:1-20
The International Uniform Sunday
School Lesson for December 3.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The present lesson, though its events occurred in an ancient city, has a modern flavor and emphasizes some of our modern problems.

As was Paul's custom, he made the synagogue the center of his religious activity in Ephesus as long as he was permitted to speak there freely. For three months he was able to carry on this sort of ministry, but by that time
his opponents had stirred up so much opposition that he found it advisable to leave the synagogue and establish his preaching ministry, which apparently was a ministry of conversation and discussion, in the school of Tyrann-us.

One ship drives east and another drives west,
While the self-same breezes blow;
It's the set of the sails and not the gales,

LYNCHING STORM

Pacific exposition opened. Day and night the spotlight centered on Mayor Rolph, ringmaster of the great fair. He greeted notables from all parts of the world and foreign nations heaped honors on him.

Guns boomed across the earth and the World War was one. Opportunity again beckoned to the great showman. He built boats to carry cargoes along the coast and across the sea, selling them at huge profit before they ever took to the water. His companies pyramided millions.

Only one setback came to him during all this period. That was in 1918, when he was defeated by Governor Stephens in the race for the gubernatorial nomination.

But there still was the mayoralty and Rolph was re-elected in 1919.

Down But Not Landed

Then a frown creased the face of little Fortune. War ended. Depression came. And with it catastrophe for Rolph. The mad prosperity era was finished and the great showman's millions vanished. In 1924 he appeared in court and admitted that he owed $600,000—which he could not pay.

But the faith of San Francisco in its spectacular mayor never faltered. He was re-elected in 1923 and 1927.

And then ambition whispered in the ear of Rolph. He would be governor and perhaps vault into a seat in the United States Senate. He entered the lists against powerful opposition, with a strong enemy press pounding at his candidacy.

Strike Up the Band!

Never did James J. Rolph shine with greater brilliance. His campaign was marvelous to follow. He swept from one end of the state to the other, shaking the hands of thousands, dazzling them with his spectacular entrances and exits. He won and went into office with the solid backing of liberals, the approval of conservatives, and with the country folk shouting his praises.

But something snapped. Rolph the governor seemed to be another man than Rolph the mayor. Murmurs arose, swelling into a protest that was climaxed by a legislative investigation of his administration.

The Rolph who had fought for the people against the utilities became less militant against the great corporations. His chief adviser became a friend of younger days, then liberal, now a power in the utility business.

Critics Grow Bolder

The governor sided against the Tom Mooney case. He vetoed the paramount bill, to the surprise of the voters, who arose in their might and snatched him under on that issue. His appointments came under fire and charges of mismanagement were rife.

Rolph fought back, but he was not the battler of his younger days. And he knows now, at 64, what he never knew when he was the idol of San Francisco—the threat of defeat and repudiation by the people of the state who so long acclaimed him.

The storm beats about James Rolph, Jr., but now it sweeps across the nation, instead of being circumscribed by his native state. In all his colorful career, he never has faced such a tempest as that which he invoked when he placed his seal of approval on the lynching of the two men dragged through San Jose streets by a maddened mob.

New Chevrolets Are in Production

1934 Model to Feature Independent Front Wheel Spring

DETROIT, Mich.—Chevrolet is now in production of new 1934 models as the beginning of next year's program. M. E. Coyle, General Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company announced Friday.

Employment is nearly normal in the Ford Plant in Detroit, the Foundry in Saginaw and the Carburetor and Die Casting Plant in Bay City. The other manufacturing plants located in Flint, Detroit and Toledo have already half their regular employees back at work and the production at the various assembly plants is starting slowly.

"We are, however, fully staffed with our regular employees, who are being summoned back to work as needed," Mr. Coyle stated.

Radical styling and engineering changes, with increased speed and economy, are promised. Independent front wheel suspension, providing a cushion ride with "knee action" springs, recently announced for all new General Motors models by President Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., will help make the 1934 Chevrolet the most extensively improved annual model since the car was stepped up to six cylinders in 1928, according to the Chevrolet executive.

"Manufacturing operations are being pushed ahead with all possible dispatch to get a full quota of regular Chevrolet employees on the payrolls with a minimum of delay," Mr. Coyle stated.

"As soon as sufficient display cars to stock the company's 10,000 domestic dealers are in the field the public showing will be held," he said.

In the first ten months of 1933 the company built 609,000 units, 55 per cent more than in the full twelve months of 1932. This sharp increase, achieved mostly in the past six months, enabled the company to finish its 1933 program with hourly wage rates 20 per cent higher than at the beginning of the year.

"We believe," said Mr. Coyle, "that the most effective contribution American industry can make to the general welfare at this time is to get all its regular employees back on a payroll as quickly as possible, give them as many hours work as the law allows or sales volume will permit and at the highest wages commensurate with the work being done in their localities."

"In the fifteen cities where we operate plants we have tried to pay wages as high or higher than obtained in other industries or plants in those cities for this same type of work. By this method we hope to inspire an understanding between the men and the management of our mutual problem of keeping factories operating that men may be employed.

"Consideration for the workmen has been and will continue to be a major factor in the determination of our annual program. We are, to a greater extent than ever before, spreading work as widely as we can, and endeavoring through the build up of parts inventories, to avoid any severe dips in our employment chart."

Mr. Coyle stated that no definite date for the public showing of the 1934 cars had yet been determined. He said he felt sure, however, that it would be held in ample time to enable the company to participate in New York automobile show activities, where Chevrolet by virtue of leading the industry in production and sales will for the eighth consecutive year occupy first place.

Oil Industry Sees Prosperity Ahead

NRA Has Helped, Declares Barton, President of Lion Oil Co.

EL DORADO, Ark.—The outlook for the oil industry under the NRA code is very bright, according to Col. T. H. Barton, president of the Lion Oil Refining company, who is also regional chairman of the refining division of the Oil Industries code.

"The oil industry," said Col. Barton, "is feeling the benefits of the oil code of the National Recovery Act, and when carried to a successful conclusion, will be materially improved."

Lion Oil Refining company, one of Arkansas's major industries, has shown a net profit of $113,282.17 for the third quarter of 1933 after depreciation and depletion charges were made, according to the published report of the company for the third quarter of 1933. The company showed a profit of $306,242.52 before depreciation and depletion. This compares with a small loss for the first and second quarters of the year.

In speaking of the effects of the oil industry code in Arkansas, Col. Barton stated that many men in Arkansas, directly or indirectly interested in the oil industry will be benefited by the oil code.

"Many things in the code," Col. Barton stated, "are not perfect, but I feel that in time they will be worked out to the benefit of those living in the oil territory."

Under provisions of the oil code, Lion oil and its subsidiaries have increased their payrolls more than $225,000 annually, have added more than 186 employees to the payrolls. The payroll of Lion Oil and its subsidiaries is more than $1,000,000 annually, and is one of the largest in the state.

Retail sales of the Lion company in 1933 have shown a 20 per cent increase over 1932 through the same number of outlets, which is considerably better than the average of the oil industry as a whole. All of the money from production, refining and marketing operations of the company comes into Arkansas, Col. Barton stated, and most of it is spent here.

The latest NRA story concerns the sad fate of a man who was given Tuesday off as a result of the five-day week and his wife changed work day to Tuesday.

The real reason a devoted wife is anxious to get home to her husband is for fear that he may be enjoying her absence.

Waller, Prescott Pioneer, Dies at 85

Merchant for 60 Years, He Dies in That City Friday

W. B. Waller, retired merchant, died at his home in Prescott at 4 o'clock Friday morning at the age of 85. He was one of Prescott's oldest citizens, for more than 60 years operating a merchandising concern in that city.

Mr. Waller, spent Thanksgiving with a son, Ben, who resides on the Boston-Camden road, returning to Prescott to die in his sleep early Friday. Surviving are his widow, two sons, Will and Ben Waller, and one daughter, Mrs. H. E. Rouse.

Funeral services were incomplete Friday noon.

Bond Agreement Is Believed Near

Bond Representatives Due in Little Rock Monday

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Hope that a round-table discussion of bond refunding matters between a full sub-committee membership and representatives of the direct state bondholders here Monday might pave the way for settlement of the bond question, was expressed Friday by various state officials after it became known that the bondholders had been requested to come here.

Currency Crisis Near for France

She's Hurt as England Dumps Pounds to Stave Off U. S. Attack

PARIS France—Realization that the franc is in critical danger was brought home to the people of France for the first time Thursday. The following revelations in the afternoon press tell the story.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows 1,500,000,000 francs—$60,000,000 at par—left the country during the week ending November 24. The total outflow of gold is now 4,000,000,000 francs in five weeks.

The Treasury sent out an S. O. S. in an announcement of a 1,500,000,000 franc issue of five-year bonds at the staggering interest of 5 per cent. The loan is necessary to carry the Treasury over the end of the year.

Minor symptoms of the crisis were the drop in the percentage of gold coverage for the franc from 79.95 per cent to 79.14 per cent, continued weakness of the franc in terms of the dollar and pound at 16 francs, 38 centimes, and 84 francs, 46 centimes, respectively, and the weak tone of government bonds despite official support.

Financial experts noted all the classic symptoms of an approaching currency crisis just as they have noted that analysis of gold movements show that most of the yellow metal went to England.

The gold drainage was none the less an indirect consequence of the dollar's depreciation for it was the resultant flow of American capital to England which forced the British Equalization fund to dump massive quantities of pounds on the Paris market in order to put a break on the upward movement of sterling caused by the influx of American capital.

Rev. J. F. Brewer in Baptist Pulpit

To Preach Sunday in Absence of Pastor Wallace R. Rogers

In the absence of the Rev. Wallace R. Rogers, pastor of First Baptist church, the pulpit will be filled for both services Sunday by the Rev. James F. Brewer of Louisville, Ky.

The Rev. Mr. Brewer is a native of Arkansas, his home being formerly in Little Rock. He is a graduate of Ouachita college, Arkadelphia, having taken his A. B. degree from that institution in 1930. Following his graduation he was employed for some time in the offices of the State Railroad Commission. During this time he also held a pastorate for a year and a half at the Woodlawn Baptist church in Little Rock.

At the present time the Rev. Mr. Brewer is a student in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. At the end of the present term he will have been a student there for two years and will be awarded the degree of master of theology at the commencement exercises next spring. While a student in the seminary the Rev. Mr. Brewer is also filling a pastorate at a Baptist church near Scottsburg, Ind.

The Rev. Mr. Brewer is well known in Hope having visited here a great deal. Mrs. Brewer, formerly Miss Virginia Higginson, is now visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Higginson of this city.

Guernsey Basketball Teams Win 2 Games

Guernsey defeated Spring Hill twice in basketball games played this week, scoring a 19 to 15 victory in the first game, and taking the second combat, 16 to 5. The second game was between girl teams of the two schools.

disaster, he concluded.

But under the new federal program the activities of the banks and the activities of the new federal savings and loan associations will be completely

Furthermore, the speaker pointed out, the activities of each federal savings and loan association will be limited to its own community; there will be no stretching of territorial lines; each concern will be restricted to the local territory, with whose conditions its managers are thoroughly familiar.

The speaker said the Hope organization would require 30 initial shareholders, with a minimum total capital of $200.

Mr. Conway has been in and out of Hope most of this week. He will speak again before the Kiwanis club Friday night, and will return to Hope for organization purposes next week.

dash was destroyed. No liquor was found.

Moving in Hempstead county, officers seized Will White, negro, operating a still in a section of woods 10 miles southwest of Hope. A companion, believed to be a white man, escaped. Eight barrels of mash were destroyed. A small amount of liquor was taken.

Wednesday night officers raided the home of Britt Lee in Washington, taking two and one-half gallons of liquor, found hidden in the left of his home. Authorities said they had received numerous complaints against Lee.

Officers making the raids were: Sheriff Artie Pittman, Nevada county; Chief Deputy Sheriff Allen Shippey, Hempstead county; and Officers Earl May, Jess Hays and Elbert Rider.

Louisiana Revolt on Long, Spreading

Effort to Avoid Primary Election Stirs Up Parishes

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—The open revolt against the attempt of Gov. O. K. Allen and Senator Huey P. Long to "elect" their Sixth District congressional candidate by eliminating the primary election spread quickly Thursday as five parishes in the district announced they would not pay officers to serve in the "general election."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, who was designated in a "star chamber" act as the Democratic candidate to succeed her husband, the late Congressman Kemp, said in New Orleans that she would accept the nomination.

Several mass meetings of citizens have been held and a court injunction secured to prevent the printing of Mrs. Kemp's name on the ballot. Another group has decided to stay away from the polls and a citizens primary election is called for December 27 to nominate a Democratic candidate.

Governor Allen this week called the "surprise" general election for next Tuesday and the district Democratic Executive Committee then selected Mrs. Kemp as the party nominee because "there was no time to hold a primary election" before the general election.

East Baton Rouge, in which the state capital city of Baton Rouge is located, East Feliciana, West Feliciana, Iberville, and Tangipahoa parishes assert intention through their police juries of not sharing the cost of "electing" Mrs. Kemp.

Picked Out of 1100 Beauties

Right side up or upside down, whichever way you look at them, these girls are among the two dozen most beautiful girls Hollywood directors have been able to find in a nation-wide search for pulchritude. There were 1100 participants in a recent scramble for jobs in the films, but only 24 got contracts.

Do You Recognize Louise?

Who doesn't recall, with longing joy, the comical capers of Louise Fazenda? She was a favorite far back in the silent movie days and the talkies didn't stop her, either. Here she is now, with her son, Brent, as Mrs. Hal Wallis. Just to see how different she looks from her screen character, the inset shows her in one of her earlier pictures.

Violin Stilled by Slayer's Bullet

--and pressed the trigger

Sternly calm as she poured forth her grim words of confession . . . tight-lipped, iron-visaged as she stuck to her fantastic story . . . flip, humorously whimsical as she was borne to jail . . . the human enigma that is Dr. Alice Wynkoop may be more or less!) understandable to you as you study this remarkable photograph of the hard-nerved woman physician who is the central figure in Chicago's operating-table murder mystery.

Face $500,000 Kidnap Ring Charge Meets Hitler In Arms Talk

Branded as one of the leaders in a $500,000 kidnaping ring, which forced Al Capone to bow to its orders, Frank Souder, Benton, Ill., gambler, with 11 others, is held in jail in Chicago. Souder, shown above with his wife after their arrest, is accused in a confession by an accomplice of the abductions of 10 wealthy gamblers and bootleggers in the midwest.

She's After Scalp of Huey Long

If Huey Long and his cohorts are laid low in Louisiana, a major share of the credit will go to Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond and the Louisiana woman's committee, of which she is chairman. Mrs. Hammond is shown here as she testified in New Orleans at the inquiry into sensational election scandals, telling Senator Tom Connally: "You've done good work—this last week."

Fox Is Called In Senate Quiz

William Fox, above, motion picture producer, has been called to tell the Senate Banking Committee of the campaign waged by Albert H. Wiggin, former Chase National Bank head, and his associates to gain control of Fox Films, Inc., in which they spent millions.

Charged with violating public morals by appearing clad only in a blanket and shouting insults at marchers in the mammoth Villa parade in Mexico City, Lee Tracy, American actor, above, was "permitted to leave the country," after a brief hearing in the Mexican capital. Mexican wrath flamed high against the actor, who was on location in a picture being filmed in Mexico.

Sister Scorns Mae West's Tip

"The dame who knows the ropes doesn't get tied up," wisecracks Mae West. But Mae's sister, Beverly, above, doesn't go for Mae's advice, for she has announced her engagement to Vladimir Baikoff, her vaudeville manager and chief stockholder in a French perfumery firm. It's a love match, says Beverly.

Backing Up the Blue Eagle

The American people have given the Blue Eagle fine backing all the way along, but seldom such backing as Lena Andre, young Hollywood movie actress, gives it in the picture above. You let the eagle perch on your back, and the sun does the rest.

Other Woman' in Wynkoop Case

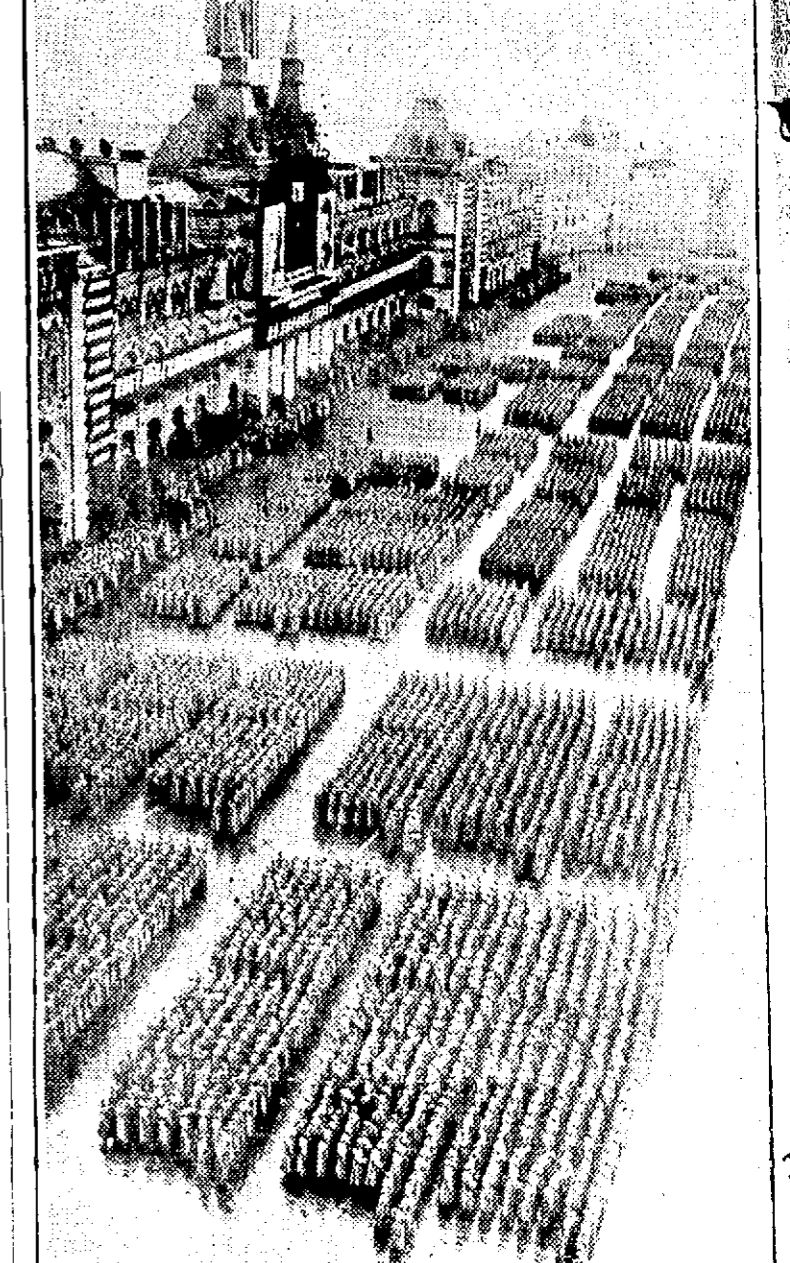

A petite, auburn-haired clerk in a Chicago department store, Miss Priacilla Wittl, was revealed as the "other woman" in the weird Wynkoop murder case. Earle Wynkoop admitted that he was with her the evening before his wife's body was found in the basement surgery of his mother's home. Miss Wittl, 25, is shown above as she told police, "Earle and I were sweethearts. I didn't know he was married."

A Newcomer in Hollywood

One of the latest arrivals in Hollywood is John Joseph Haley, Jr., the blinking little tot you see in the arms of his mother, the former Florence McFadden of the legitimate stage. And, of course, proud papa couldn't stay out of the picture. He's the Broadway actor who's been signed to make his movie debut soon.

Russia Shows Strength on 16th Birthday

A red letter day in Russian history was the 16th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. In celebration of the occasion thousands of gray coated troops lined up in Moscow's Red Square, as shown here, in an impressive display of military strength.
